RECOGNITION OF AND COMMITMENT TO THE DHARUG PEOPLE

City of Parramatta recognises the Dharug People as First Australians, peoples of the oldest continuous living culture in the world.

For more than 60,000 years, Parramatta has been home to the Baramadagal and other Dharug peoples, the Traditional Owners of the land we call the City of Parramatta today. The Baramadagal and other Dharug peoples have cared for and nurtured the habitat, land, and waters for thousands of generations, and maintain an ongoing connection to Parramatta and its surrounding areas.

As a community, we can learn from the resilience and community spirit of First Nations people to best ensure a sustainable City for all. Parramatta has always been an important meeting place for the First Nations people, particularly the Parramatta River, which has provided life and vitality since the beginning of time (The Dreaming).

The name Parramatta is derived from the word Baramada/Burramatta or 'place where the eels lie down' (breeding location for eels within the Parramatta River). City of Parramatta recognises the significance of this area for all First Nations people as a site of early contact between the First Australians and European Colonists, and Parramatta remains an important meeting place for the First Nations community.

First Nations people continue to play a vital role in the ecological, economic, social and cultural life of Parramatta, while maintaining a distinct culture built on the principles of Caring for Country, the primacy of family, and the dignity and governance of Elders.

At City of Parramatta, we aspire to a future where the cultures, histories and rights of all First Nations people are understood, recognised, and respected by all Australians. City of Parramatta is committed to playing an active role in making this future a reality. City of Parramatta is proud to acknowledge the ongoing stewardship of Country by Dharug and other First Nations people and to celebrate their enduring wisdom, strength, and resilience.

Always Was, Always Will Be, Aboriginal Land.

MESSAGE FROM THE LORD MAYOR

On behalf of the City of Parramatta, I am pleased to present the First Nations Strategy.

This Strategy demonstrates Council's commitment to continue centring First Nations aspirations and voices in the City of Parramatta.

Building on the success and legacy of Council's Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan (2017-2020), the First Nations Strategy provides a framework that is unique to the City of Parramatta and reflects our commitment to the key principles of the Uluru Statement from the Heart: Voice, Treaty and Truth.

We are committed to Dharug and other First Nations people and are taking action to support the improvement of the lives of all who are rooted in this place. This five-year plan centres Dharug and First Nations people and other communities at the heart of what we do as the City of Parramatta. Our goals and actions must reflect the needs, aspirations and voices of Traditional Owners and First Nations people who have a connection to this Country.

Council undertook extensive consultation with Traditional Owners and other First Nations people, community, local service providers, peak organisations, Council's First Nations Advisory Committee, and staff, to better understand First Nations aspirations and lived experiences, what we are doing well and areas in which we can do better.

The First Nations Strategy contains practical measures and actions that Council can take to achieve meaningful and sustainable outcomes for First Nations people. It sets new goals and aligns them in Five Pillars – Social Justice; Cultural Leadership; Social Cohesion; Celebration and Accountability.

I look forward to continuing to work together with Dharug and other First Nations people and communities to achieve healthy and prosperous lives in our City of Parramatta. No matter where we come from or who we may be, let us recognise all who call Parramatta home as mittigar (a Dharug word for 'friends'). May we move forward together as friends – with deep respect for one another, with clear, informed goals and actions, and with shared hope.

Councillor Pierre Esber
Lord Mayor – City of Parramatta

MESSAGE FROM FIRST NATIONS ADVISORY COMMITTEE CHAIRPERSON

Warami Mittig̃ar Gurrumbarruk,

I am a Baramadagal / Burramattagal woman of the Dharug Nation through the Reid / Goldspink family line, and the current Chairperson of the City of Parramatta First Nations Advisory Committee.

I am pleased to be part of the City of Parramatta's positive working relationship with the local First Nations community, including Traditional Owners; the Baramadagal and other Dharug peoples.

The First Nations Strategy is a proactive initiative by Council in response to the cultural values articulated by the First Nations community, aimed to progress a healthy and ongoing relationship with the First Nations community. Integral to the success of the Strategy, are five focus points that set outcome measures in relation to social justice, cultural leadership, social cohesion, celebration, and accountability goals.

Culturally, it is our responsibility to think of future generations and ask ourselves what is needed in this moment to ensure our people (iyora) and country (ngurra) have what is needed to survive and thrive in seven generations time.

The First Nations Strategy is a demonstration of the City of Parramatta's partnership and allyship to support the aspirations of the First Nations community, as we continue a journey that promotes; equity, inclusivity, and community cohesion, for all whom call these sacred lands of Parramatta / Baramada home.

"... it is our responsibility to think of future generations"

INTRODUCTION

For 2024-2029, City of Parramatta Council (Council) has developed its inaugural First Nations Strategy to build upon the achievements and organisational learning from the City of Parramatta Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan (2017-2020).

Our Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) emerged from decades of relationship building with First Nations communities within Parramatta and the region, particularly with Dharug Traditional Owners and advocates within Council's Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Advisory Committee (now First Nations Advisory Committee).

These relationships continue to grow and mature. Our Reconciliation journey has led Council to embark on taking a broader strategic position on how the cultural leadership of Dharug and other First Nations people can inform the work of Council and build a stronger, cohesive, and socially just community here in Parramatta for the benefit of future generations.

Some actions from the Stretch RAP have now been incorporated into the ordinary work of Council and are shared within this document as ongoing commitments in compliment with the new actions. In doing so, a wholistic picture of what Council is doing to improve First Nations' outcomes is provided.

As a whole-of-Council endeavour, this First Nations Strategy also sets out new actions under five pillars (goals):

- ❖ Social Justice
- ❖ Cultural Leadership
- ❖ Social Cohesion
- ❖ Celebration
- ❖ Accountability

These pillars and new actions have been developed as a result of extensive community engagement with a range of stakeholders including Council's First Nations Advisory Committee and Dharug Traditional Owners.

The community engagement process has focused on co-design and deep conversations with the community and our internal and external stakeholders so there is real buy-in into the development and success of the Strategy.

Our approach to the development of the Strategy, in engaging a First Nations consultant to support our stakeholder engagement process and in undertaking deep conversations and co-design processes to centre the voice and aspirations of the First Nations communities is Council's affirmative response to the invitation of the Uluru Statement from the Heart.

CITY OF PARRAMATTA SNAPSHOT

There is a rich culture of strength and resilience of the Baramadagal/Burramattagal and other Dharug and First Nations peoples in our City.

Today, we have 2,079 First Nations residents, some of whom come from other off Country and call Parramatta / Baramada home. 672 families with First Nations members live in Parramatta, with 48 people who speak one or more Australian Indigenous languages at home. Additionally, 656 First Nations people travel from other local government areas to our City for work. It is important to acknowledge that our local government area is also the site of Silverwater Correctional Facility, where First Nations people are disproportionately represented in the incarcerated population. There is much work to be done on a local, state, and federal level to reach health equity, equality before the law, and income equality for First Nations people.

It is important to also note that First Nations people's connection to Parramatta goes much deeper than just a place of residence.

For thousands of years Parramatta has been an important meeting place for First Nations peoples, with the Burramattagal, a clan of the Dharug, first settling along the upper reaches of the iconic Parramatta River. Extensive river, wetland, and land modification commenced in 1788 with colonial settlement, European agricultural, industrial development, and urbanisation (Figure 1). This shift in land management resulted in a legacy of environmental challenges and health risks, including the decision to disallow swimming in Parramatta River in 1943.

Baramada/Burramatta has always been an important meeting place for Aboriginal people. In early colonial times, many Aboriginal people were brought to Sydney and Parramatta as an underpaid workforce in domestic service and building infrastructure. This migration resulted in a large First Nations population in inner-city Sydney and Western Sydney. Of note, Western Sydney has the largest First Nations population of any region in Australia.

First Nations people have a very close and special connection to a number of institutions in Parramatta, including the Native Institution, Parramatta Gaol, Parramatta Park, and the Women's Factory. Many historical policies and initiatives were first implemented in Parramatta, which had major impacts on First Nations society. For example, the policies that led to the Stolen Generation began outside the Parramatta Town Hall in 1810 through the Assimilation Policy (1810-1825). The lasting effects of the Stolen Generation have been profound throughout Australia, and the consequences of which have rippled into the 1970s and present day generations.

Today, there are many First Nations people who work, live and play in Parramatta. Dharug and other First Nations people continue to play a vital role in the fabric of our City through their continual care of Country, generous sharing of their knowledge and culture and overall contribution to the social, economic, cultural and ecological vibrancy of our City.

STRATEGIC & POLICY CONTEXT

CITY OF PARRAMATTA'S COMMUNITY STRATEGIC PLAN 2018 – 2038 (CSP) IS THE LEADING PLAN IN THIS FRAMEWORK. THE CSP SETS OUT THE CITY'S LONG-TERM GOALS AND OUTLINES OUR VISION TO BECOME "SYDNEY'S CENTRAL CITY: SUSTAINABLE, LIVEABLE AND PRODUCTIVE – INSPIRED BY COMMUNITIES".

All planning at Council is conducted within the Integrated Planning and Reporting (IP&R) framework – a mandatory framework for all NSW councils.

The First Nations Strategy has been developed in response to the CSP and addresses the challenges currently facing the community. It supports our CSP vision by establishing further priorities and action areas that contribute a more fair, welcoming, and thriving City.

COUNCIL'S ROLE

Council plays a very broad role in delivering the strategy across the City. To support clarity around our levels of responsibility the CSP uses a 'deliver, partner, advocate' model.

❦ 01. DELIVER

Council delivers a wide range of programs and services including waste collection, libraries, childcare, maintenance of local roads and public spaces, recreation facilities and programs, community care, special events and regulatory functions.

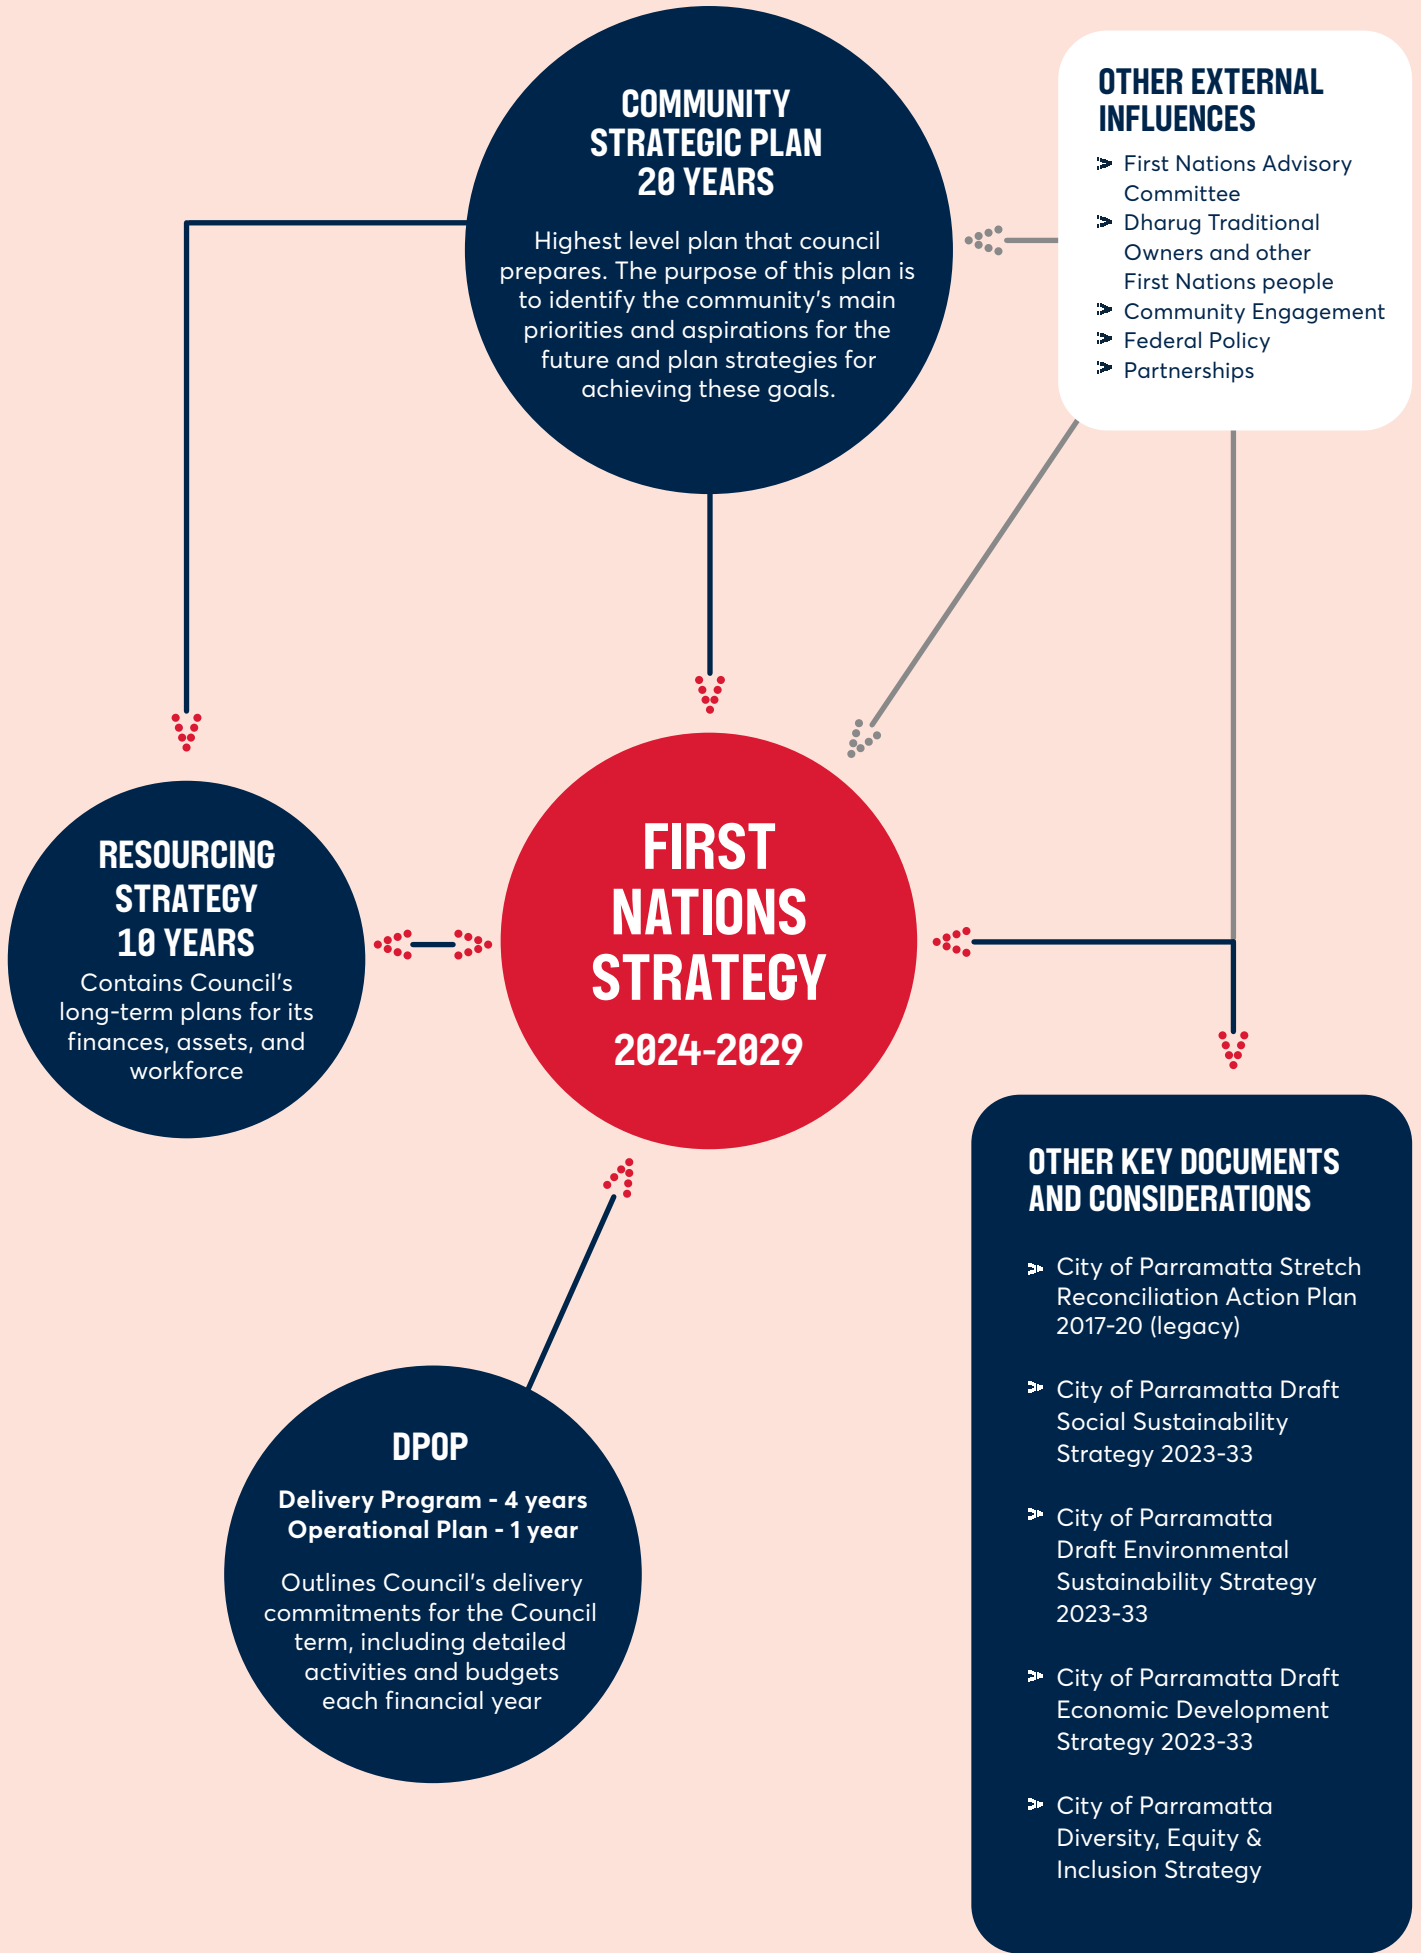

❦ 02. PARTNER

Council builds strategic partnerships with federal and state government agencies, other Councils, First Nations bodies, the private sector, community organisations, and a range of other stakeholders that will contribute to delivering the strategy's objectives.

❦ 03. ADVOCATE

When we are not in partnership or do not have direct control over an issue, Council gives voice to the needs and aspirations of the community through advocacy. We advocate for changes in policy and action at relevant levels of government and industry to bring about the best outcomes for our community and environment.

In developing the First Nations Strategy, Council reviewed existing policies and initiatives, on a local and global scale, to inform the strategy. These policies and initiatives continue to influence, guide, and support this strategy.

Figure 1: Local to global policies and initiatives that influence, guide, and support this strategy.

In line with our CSP requirements and the "Accountability" pillar within this Strategy, Council recognises the importance that governance and reporting will play in the success of the First Nation Strategy.

Central to this will be the important role that Council's First Nations Advisory Committee will play in ensuring we remain accountable in delivering our commitments and providing the guidance required to ensure we are continually meeting the expectations set through the First Nations Strategy.

Governance is about creating long term sustainability which is built on a thriving culture. We here at the City of Parramatta believe that good governance is about having good representation across all the Directorates within Council. To that end, we will be working towards setting up an operational governance structure that reflects this objective.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

COMMUNITY

We wanted to better understand First Nations aspirations and lived experiences, what we are doing well, and areas in which we can do better.

Stage One was held between August and December 2022, and involved extensive consultation with Dharug and other First Nations people, community, local service providers, peak organisations, Council's First Nations Advisory Committee, and staff.

We received a significant amount of input that was used to inform the development of a draft First Nations Strategy for Council.

Between September and November 2023, the draft First Nations Strategy was placed on public exhibition so that we could check-in with everyone that provided feedback during stage one. By doing so, we were able to confirm that the document accurately captured and represented what we had heard.

This section provides a summary of what we did, who we spoke with and what you said.

WHO WE SPOKE WITH	WHAT WE DID
First Nations community	To create a strategic plan that is directly aligned with the ambitions and aspirations of the Dharug and broader First Nations community, Council engaged with several First Nations groups, including local Traditional Owners, Elders and members of the First Nations Advisory Committee.
Service providers	Several service providers that work with First Nations clients within the Parramatta local government area were engaged with via stakeholder workshops and focus groups to gain a better understanding of key challenges and opportunities.
Council staff	Council staff were invited to provide feedback on the draft pillars and refine the scope and actions outlined within the new First Nations Strategy. Council staff members participated in a series of internal scoping sessions and workshops.
General community	Council also invited the broader community to get involved with the project and provide input into the strategy pillars, directions, and overall vision across a series of events and workshops as well as via online surveys hosted on Participate Parramatta. Across both stages of engagement, the opportunity to get involved was presented to over 182,000 people which resulted in a total of 71 community members submitting their feedback online.

OUR VISION, OUR GOALS

Credit: City Of Parramatta

04

A shared journey

31

OUR VISION

City of Parramatta's First Nations Strategy is Council's responsibility to deliver in partnership with our community.

City of Parramatta's Community Strategic Plan is the highest level of strategic document that a Council prepares. The First Nations Strategy will play an important role in contributing to achieving the Community Strategic Plan's vision of "Sydney's central city, sustainable, liveable and productive – inspired by our communities."

First Nations wisdom and cultural practices are embedded into our planning and decision making to deliver focused and co-designed outcomes.

In this context, our vision for the First Nations Strategy and the centring of First Nations aspirations and voices is:

A shared journey to continue working together with First Nations peoples and communities through relationships built on action, trust and integrity, that recognises First Nations people's self-determination and respects their own decision-making and knowledge systems.

❖ LIVEABILITY OF OUR COMMUNITY

Cities that are stable, socially connected, culturally rich and provide great access to quality services, essential infrastructure, creative expression, and the natural environment are great places where people want to live. In advancing First Nations voices and aspirations we seek to address the legacy of our past and ensure a great quality of life for the First Nations people now and into the future.

❖ PRODUCTIVITY OF OUR COMMUNITY

The whole Parramatta community is stronger when everyone achieves their full potential. The impacts of colonisation present an obstacle to the achievement of such a vision. Businesses thrive in prosperous and cohesive communities. Employers, including Council, will benefit from the skills and talents of a First Nations workforce. First Nations people and families can improve their circumstances when they have opportunities that enable them to live with dignity and security.

First Nations children will get a great start in life when their families can access quality early childhood education and care. Our local business community will benefit from the growth and prosperity of First Nations owned businesses, which are able to meet procurement needs and achieve a social outcome through their positive employment practices.

❖ SUSTAINABILITY AND RESILIENCE OF OUR COMMUNITY

Advancing First Nations voices and aspirations offer the City an opportunity to build a healthy, thriving, and empowered community.

The relationships built through our Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan and now this strategy are the relationships we can draw on to address chronic stresses like inequality, climate change, cost of housing and increasing demand for health services; and respond to acute shocks, such as extreme heatwaves, flash flooding and infrastructure failures.

This First Nations Strategy builds Council's capacity to pursue common goals with the First Nations communities and to learn from the resilience demonstrated by the Dharug people who have lived in this place for tens of thousands of years.

❖ LEADERSHIP IN OUR COMMUNITY

By making a commitment to First Nations voices and aspirations in Parramatta, we aim to foster respect and relationships with Dharug people and other First Nations communities in the region built on action, trust and integrity and with meaningful and sustainable outcomes.

OUR GOALS

To achieve our vision, the following long-term community goals have been developed to reflect the community's First Nations aspirations for the City of Parramatta. Each goal is supported by outcomes and strategic actions that provide a roadmap to achieving these goals.

❖ SOCIAL JUSTICE

Recognising and allowing First Nations people to have a voice that empowers and enables self-determination. A shared journey to continue working together with First Nations peoples and communities to live healthy and prosperous lives.

❖ CULTURAL LEADERSHIP

Relationships and engagement built on trust and integrity with First Nations Communities with meaningful and sustainable outcomes.

❖ SOCIAL COHESION

Understanding, valuing, and recognising First Nations cultures, protocols, histories, knowledge, and rights, through cultural learning across organisations.

❖ CELEBRATION

By making a commitment to First Nations voices and aspirations in Parramatta, we aim to foster respect and relationships with Dharug people and other First Nations communities in the region built on trust and integrity and with meaningful and sustainable outcomes.

❖ ACCOUNTABILITY

Shared ownership between Community and Council in the delivery of and reporting back on of actions flowing from the First Nations Strategy.

OUR ONGOING COMMITMENTS

Legacy of the Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan

Council endorsed the City of Parramatta Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan 2017-2020, on 13 June 2017 following a six-month process of development and consultation.

The Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) listed key actions to recognise and celebrate the deep connection of Dharug Traditional Owners to Country, as well as the special connection the broader First Peoples community has to Parramatta.

The RAP actions were designed to ensure Council is culturally aware and responsive, and addressing key areas of disadvantage experienced by the First Nations people and communities.

At the end of June 2020, the Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan 2017-2020 implementation was complete. Council achieved 80% implementation of actions and targets.

These outcomes have been reported to Reconciliation Australia (RA) and highlights include:

- ❖ Surpassing targets for cultural awareness training;
- ❖ Increased spend in procurement for First Nations businesses;
- ❖ Incorporation of First Nations into programming, particularly at Early Learning Centres, Riverside Theatres and Parramatta Artists' Studios;
- ❖ Influence in development of key strategic documents such as Community Strategic Plan, Culture and our City and Socially Sustainable Parramatta;
- ❖ Development of cultural infrastructure including Keeping Place, First Nations Walk and National First Nations Science Centre;
- ❖ Elevated acknowledgement of Dharug particularly in signage and public art and interpretation.

MEASURING OUR IMPACT

Council is genuine about its commitment to identifying meaningful measures that will track progress made towards delivery of the First Nation Strategy goals, and the overall impact of this Plan for people with disability in our community.

Council is genuine about its commitment to identifying meaningful measures that will track progress made towards delivery of the First Nation Strategy goals, and the overall impact of this Plan for people with disability in our community.

However, developing a meaningful set of measures and targets will require more work. Therefore, one of the actions of the First Nations Strategy is to develop a robust Outcomes Measurement Framework.

Council will work collaboratively with staff, subject matter experts, our community and community organisations to develop an Outcomes Measurement Framework that will demonstrate how Council will track progress made, set appropriate targets and document how we are contributing to improving First Nations outcomes. The Outcomes Measurement Framework will be a tool that Council, and others, can use to measure the impact we are trying make.

Throughout the duration of the Action Plan (four years), it will:

- Develop a baseline data set to evaluate the First Nations Strategy
- Monitor the progress of the First Nations Strategy's activities

This Framework will measure progress against identified long-term outcomes.

Council recognises the inherent challenges in capturing, measuring, and reporting on actions towards these goals. Whilst there is no perfect way to measure the complex set of factors that contribute to First Nations outcomes, Council must find ways to understand and measure how our community is progressing towards these Pillars.

To demonstrate how City of Parramatta will make progress against each of these five Pillars, Council will utilise a 'Theory of Change' methodology. For the purposes of this document, a Theory of Change is defined as your hypothesis of how your activity will lead to the intended impact that you are seeking to achieve (Kevin Robbie, Think Impact 2019).
